If your pet was vaccinated on or after April 1, 2017 and you have a copy of the Rabies Certificate with you, this year's (2018) vaccination will be valid for three (3) years.

Rabies is an infectious and contagious disease that can be transmitted to humans. If untreated, rabies is considered 100 percent fatal. In order to protect the public, unvaccinated dogs and cats that have been exposed to rabies must either be isolated at an animal hospital for three months or destroyed.

Rabies is present in the wildlife population of Massachusetts, though the virus may not be detected in an area for long periods of time. Vaccinating household pets is the best way to prevent rabies and is the law in Massachusetts. It is also the best way to protect both your animals and your family.

It is also advised that you do not approach any wild animals.
